

Excelery[™]

Celery seed extract offering anti-inflammatory and antiviral effects, fully extracted to maximize bioavailability with a concentrated amount of phthalides

- Standardized to contain 42.5% of phthalides, of which 3-n-butylphthalide is the predominant compound
- Extracted without the use of petroleum solvents, which can leave toxic residue, or high-temperature steam dissipation, which can destroy heat-sensitive compounds
- Celery extract has proven to lessen the likelihood of a stroke and improve blood flow while increasing energy production in the brain, unlike traditional blood pressure drugs.
